

Securing the future

About VEGA

VEGA is a professional services company that delivers technology-enabled change in complex environments, often where security and resilience are key.

We offer independent expert advice and pragmatic solutions to help our clients meet their transformation challenges with confidence.

Based on over 30 years experience of working with industry, government and the military, VEGA is trusted by its clients to enhance delivery of new capability and ensure continuity of operations and performance.

Understanding the Challenges

Facing up to an uncertain future is a growing challenge in business and public service. Technology plays a large part in enabling any organisations' evolution, with information management of paramount importance.

Technology can be the catalyst for changing working practices that improve service delivery and achieve higher levels of efficiency. It is also however an opportunity for those wishing to take advantage or threaten our way of life, to manipulate or attack the technology-dependent infrastructure on which we have come to rely.

Securing the Future

VEGA works with organisations in Defence, Government, Aerospace and Critical National Infrastructure, to enable them to secure their futures. We do this through the themes of:

- > Organisation Change – that transforms working methods and delivers value in a controlled and effective way
- > Technology Delivery – that specifies, configures and implements a wide range of technology-enabled solutions
- > Secure and Resilient Environments – that protect information, technology and human assets

These themes form the basis of VEGA's Integrated Service Approach.

Integrated Service Approach

VEGA is committed to enabling integrated solutions across technologically complex and information-rich environments.

Our practitioners have the domain experience and technical expertise to help organisations realise the potential of technology-enabled change in a secure and resilient manner.

We are trusted by our clients to understand the challenges that lie before them. We evaluate, recommend and implement innovative and appropriate technology options. All of which is informed by accredited best practice.

To capture this wealth of experience, our methods are aligned under the VEGA Integrated Service Approach (VISA). This ensures that evolving best-practice and real-world experience are delivered seamlessly for our clients. VISA incorporates methods to address:

- Business analysis and decision support
 - Technology analysis, strategy and architecture
 - Organisation design
 - Secure architecture and system delivery
 - Technology procurement
 - Independent programme management
 - Operational performance management
 - Information assurance
